Czar Refuses To Grant The Country Autonomy As Was Requested By Mobs.

DECLARES COUNTRY IS IN ARMS

Emperor Of Russia Issues Ukase Placing It Under Martial Law--Riots Will Continue for Some Time.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Warsaw, Nov. 13.—Despite a proclamation of martial law throughout Poland and the declaration by the government that there will be no consideration of the demands for autonomy, the revolt has continued today and railroads are closely guarded and desultory firing continues.

In St. Petersburg
St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—The city is reasonably quiet today. The police dispersed a crowd of roughs in the Nevsky Prospect who started to attack the "Intellectuals." The fashionable quarter of Moscow is deserted. An attack on the students is feared today.

Is Turned Down
St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—The czar issued an ukase Monday morning not only delaying Poland's plea for autonomy and a parliament, but refusing to permit Poland to share in the constitutional government recently granted to all the rest of Russia.

The czar declared that Poland is in a state of insurrection, and that, until order is restored, and the people prove their loyalty, it cannot join in the duma.

The text of the imperial ukase is as follows:

Why Appeal Is Denied.
"In accordance with the ukase of Dec. 25, 1904, the exceptional laws hindering the free development of the nation were abrogated and the Poles were given the same rights as the Russians. Educational, municipal and judicial reforms were introduced, as stipulated by the decisions arrived at by the committee of ministers on June 18 and by the ukase of April 30 regarding religious liberty. The general measures adopted by the government were extended to Poland, which also was given the right of participation in the duma and freedom of meeting. Finally on Oct. 30 the Poles were fully recognized as free citizens, thereby obtaining full opportunity to prove their capacity. By participating in a great creative work they consequently would have gradually attained the ulterior progress of the Polish nation with the end of the electoral institutions, which naturally would have sympathized with their fate.

Blame for Politicians.
"Forgetting the painful lessons of the past, the politicians who are directing the national movement in the kingdom of Poland are making attempts as dangerous for the Polish populace as they are insolent toward Russia, to bring about the separation of the empire. Rejecting the idea of working in common with the Russian

TEXAS MOB AS THE AVENGERS

Five Blacks Are Taken From A Jail At Hen- derson, And Hung Without Protest.

THE SHERIFF AND JAILER GAVE UP

Officials Made No Efforts To Defend Their Prisoners Against The Mob Which Demanded That They Hang.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Henderson, Tex., Nov. 13.—Without firing a shot in defense of the prisoners they were sworn to protect, the sheriff and jailer of Rusk county at o'clock Sunday morning allowed a mob of 200 white men to break into the jail take five negroes from their cells and hang three of them to a sycamore tree in the courthouse yard. There the bodies dangled Sunday morning when residents of this town started for church.

The victims of the lynchers were:
John Reese, Robert Askew and Henry Schorow, who were accused of the murder of Elias Howell, a week ago.
Two other negroes were spared because of the doubt as to their guilt, and because they told the full story of the crime to the members of the mob. One was William Williams, who is said to have stood guard while his accomplices were committing the murder, and the other was a negro preacher.

Decide Not to Resist.

The mob worked so quietly that persons living 100 yards from the jail were not awakened. The 200 men surrounded the jail and demanded that the officers give up the prisoners. There was a short parley, and the officers decided that it was useless to resist, though they were heavily armed and entrenched behind barred doors.
Sheriff Stone and his deputies made no attempt to resist while the members of the mob, piled the jail door from its hinges, and when the lynchers were inside, allowed themselves to be "overpowered" after blocking the way for a short time.

The prisoners were found cowering in their cells. They begged for mercy, as they were being dragged out.
The protests of two of them were heeded, but the other three were hurried into the courthouse yard and hanged. Not a shot was fired during the whole proceeding, and as soon as it was certain that the victims of the latest atrocity in Texas were dead, the mob dispersed.

"Squealer" Is Spared.

Williams, who was spared, was made to mount a box at the jail door and tell how he stood guard while the three men who were lynched killed their white victim. When he had finished he was returned to his cell and locked up to await action by the court.

The failure of the officers to resist is laid to the suddenness with which the mob appeared. The five negroes were arrested last Wednesday and locked in the jail. There was some talk of lynching at the time, but Judge Levy ordered a special session of the district court to be held at Henderson, Nov. 22, and it was thought that the prospect of swift justice had appeased the wrath of the people.

Fear Evidence Is Weak.

The evidence against the men was not of the strongest, and Sheriff Stone and the county attorney were making every effort to strengthen it. It became noised abroad Saturday that the evidence might not be enough to convict, and then the people decided to take the law into their own hands.

None of the members of the mob has been identified, although it is pretly well known all over the county who composed it. It is said that most of the men were neighbors and friends of Howell, who lived on a farm about ten miles from town.

nesses to the district attorney's office. Secrecy was maintained. The grand jury resumed its inquiry of the election this morning. Many witnesses were called. This afternoon they returned eight indictments of illegal voting. Six arrests were made election day and warrants for others are issued. It is understood that the jury has ordered other indictments drawn. Those under arrest are: John Kroup, Albert Farar, Thos.
H. Grady, John P. Foley alias Meade, Thos. D. Brennan and Thomas Hall.
It is reported that Kroup has confessed implicating one "higher up."

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, November 13, 1865.—Run Over.—A young lady, on horseback, this afternoon, not having the fear of the law, was crossing the street against Mr. Bates, as he was crossing the street. No damage was done and Mr. Bates will probably see to it this winter that the right chapter and verse of the Revised Statutes, are properly amended so that careless pedestrians shall be duly punished. "A bill for an act to amend an act entitled an act," &c., &c.

J. B. Hyzer's Double Heater.—Unless we are greatly mistaken the invention of Mr. J. B. Hyzer, of this city, for improved heating apparatus, is likely to be of vast benefit to the community generally, and we trust also the inventor himself in a pecuniary point of view. When it is considered how largely the item of fuel enters into the expenses of those living in large towns, it is little wonder that there is so great and constant an effort to economize fuel, and any invention looking to that end is always hailed with pleasure by the consumers of wood and coal. This improvement of Mr. Hyzer is a long step in the right direction, for it is most emphatically what he claims for it—a double heater. The heating surface is more than double that of a common stove, and certificates of gentlemen in this city who have used it state that the saving of fuel, with all its efficiency is very great. The apparatus as applied to furnaces works equally as well with the most perfect satisfaction. J. B. Hyzer, Esq., has just displaced one of the improved furnaces with this new invention, and gives it the palm over anything of its kind he has ever seen in use. When the manufacturer of these heaters is once established we have no doubt their popularity will be great indeed.

A poor woman named Barlow has given birth in London to a child with two heads. The baby, five weeks old, is a deep affliction to its parent's family, having been born with a second head attached to the first in such a manner that the smallest twist or sudden movement would cause immediate death. The poor mother is unable to lay it down without fear, and unable to dress it without the assistance of another person.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

The man with deepest voice on the American operatic stage today is Joseph Miron, who takes the part of the bandit "Murello" in the comic opera, "The Girl and the Bandit," which will be seen here at the Myers Grand Tuesday, Nov. 14.

This marvelous basso profundo is well known throughout the country as a portrayal of character parts in which his unusual voice has been used to great advantage. His first great success was as one of the "frazzle" dazie trio in Hoyt's musical comedy, "A Brass Monkey." His last great success is this one as the bandit in this new and clever production of the Frank L. Perley Opera Company.

This new organization, which is probably the best balanced, single company of the stage today, has been organized by Frank L. Perley, the some time with Francis Wilson, and took a leading part in "The Merry Monarch." He was prominent in the production of "Princess Chic" and also a Brevet in "The Soldier of Fortune." His most recent work was done with "The Chaparrones" and this earned him considerable praise.

A musical treat is in store for the local lovers of good and wholesome entertainment, for Manager Myers has secured for this evening's attraction, the rollicking three-act musical farce comedy, "My Wife's Family," the Stephens and Linton musical comedy hit of last season. The comedy is full of ginger, snap and action so essential to a musical show. There is nothing serious about it, although there is a consistent plot, a well told story, it is replete with brilliant farce and unmitigated laughable situations.

JOSEPH G. MIRON AND MARION WILDER IN "THE GIRL AND THE BANDIT," WHICH APPEARS AT THE GRAND TOMORROW NIGHT

man who managed the Bostonians in their palmy days, and subsequently developed Alce Nelsen as the greatest comic opera prima donna the country has ever seen. Mr. Miron is one of the wealthiest actors in America. He is not only possessed of much worldly wealth himself, but he married one of the most beautiful girls in Boston, who brought with her a tidy sum. He has been a great student, and has devoted much time and money in the training of the great voice that nature gave him. Every now and then he takes a season off and spends it on his houseboat in Florida with his family, and with some master of voice culture whom he takes with him especially for the purpose.

He also appeared as General Hurly Hurly in Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag," and was the famous humorist with Russell's comedians in "The City Directory." He was for years. There is the usual abundance of bright and up-to-date vaudeville specialties introduced, and entertaining original musical numbers that are sure to be whistled and sung by streeturchins, a positive sign of popularity. "My Wife's Family" met with instantaneous success last year and return dates were played by request in many cities. It struck fairly the keynote of popular taste and is sure to duplicate its original favor, for the authors, Hal Stephens and Harry Linton, have added many new comedy lines as well as new songs and dance numbers galore.

The large cast includes well known comedians, pretty girls, who know how to sing and dance, any number of high class specialties, while the production is correct in every detail as to costuming and scenic and stage effects. "My Wife's Family" will be seen at the Myers Grand Monday, November 13.

WEEKLY DIGEST OF UNIVERSITY WORK

More Students Are Taking Up Dairy Work Than Ever Before.—

Other News.

many students in dairying—2C.

The University of Wisconsin dairy school in its winter factory operation, course which has just begun, has an enrollment of 143 students thus far, an increase of 20 over the number at the same time last year. As some students cannot leave the factories at once, they do not enter the first week of the term, and the experience in previous years has shown that from 10 to 20 additional students will be there to take up the work before the 1st of December.

All these students are factory operators, about one-half of them having worked in creameries and one-half in cheese factories. Twelve are both butter and cheese makers. One woman, who expects to build a creamery on her farm, is among those who have just entered. Besides students from Wisconsin there are represented California, Minnesota, Illinois, and Argentine Republic.

The new instructors in the dairy school for the winter term are: H. J. Noyes, Muscoda, Wis., head instructor in cheese making; Francis Schwingler of Avoca and Arthur G. Laabs, Curtis, assistants in Cheddar cheese making; Goolieb Marly, Brookhead, Instructor in foreign cheese making; Martin Meyer, head instructor in butter making; Claude E. Phillips of Durand, and R. J. Willis of Mineral Point, separator instructors; George Galloway of Chelsea, instructor in the milk testing laboratory; Peter Dinkels of Mukwonago, Wis., and Lester Story in charge of the farm dairy instruction; and S. C. Haberstick in charge of the shop for dairy machinery instruction and the central heating plant of the agricultural college.

In addition to the course for factory operators, Mr. G. H. Benkenhoff, assistant in Dairy Husbandry, has twenty-four-year students in dairy laboratory work. The short course in agriculture students will begin their farm dairy instruction at the school December 1st.

College of Agriculture. The enrollment in the four-year course in the college of agriculture is 123, an increase of 58.8 per cent. Of this number Wisconsin furnishes 106, Illinois 14, Indiana 2, Iowa 1, California 1, Georgia 1, Mexico 2, Philippine Islands 3, Argentine Republic 2, and Chile 1. Among the graduate students is one from Copenhagen, Denmark and one from London, England.

Wins First Prize. The first prize of $300, offered last year by Hart, Schaffner and Marx, Chicago, for the best essay on the causes of the panic of 1893, to be written by an undergraduate of any American college or university, has been awarded to Chaucery Rex Welton of Madison, who was graduated from the university last June, and is now a student in the college of law. Mr. Welton's essay, which was written as the thesis for his baccalaureate degree was chosen from a large number of essays submitted by undergraduates of colleges and universities in all parts of the country, by a committee which consisted of Professors J. Lawrence Laughlin of Chicago University, J. B. Clark of Columbia University, Henry C. Adams of the University of Michigan, and Horace White, and Carroll D. Wright, Administration Building.

The regents have purchased the property at the corner of State and Park streets opposite Library Hall and the University Library as the site for the new administration building. The present crowded condition of the administrative offices in the law building and University Hall will make necessary the erection of the new building within the next few years. The site chosen is admirably adapted for the purpose since it is central to all portions of the university. The new building will contain all the offices of an administrative character including those of the president, regents and registrar.

Debaters Chosen. The intercollegiate debating board of the university has chosen the following students to represent Wisconsin in the annual Michigan-Wisconsin joint debate to be held this year at Ann Arbor: Grover Huchner, Manitowish; John H. Walechka, Clintonville, and Peter R. Schram, Madison. The question for debate which was submitted by Michigan and accepted by the Wisconsin team, is: "Resolved, that a commission should be given power to fix railroad rates." As the question is one of both state and national importance at the present time the debate promises to be of unusual interest.

Honors in Engineering. At the annual election of Tau Beta Pi, the honorary engineering society, the following seniors were chosen as a result of the excellent scholarship record made during the first three years of their course: F. W. Lawrence, Sheboygan; E. A. Lowe, Colgate; A. E. Van Hagan, Chicago; R. T. Herdigen, Milwaukee; W. E. Warren, Stoughton, and J. W. Reid, Oconomowoc; one junior, J. D. Sargent of Milwaukee was also elected to membership, being the junior of the highest rank in the college of engineering.

The increase of women employed in clerical work in New York City during the last five years has been phenomenal. The United States census of 1900 gives only 39,622 office women to the whole of that city. Upon the basis of recent investigation, an estimate of 60,000 women now employed in office work throughout New York City is probably not excessive.

MERCURY MAKES WRECKS NOT CURES

Thousands who have had their health ruined by Mercury testify that it makes wrecks instead of cures in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison. While it may mask the disease in the system for awhile, when the treatment is left off the trouble returns with renewed violence, combined with the disastrous effects of this powerful mineral. Mercury, and Potash, which is also a common treatment for Contagious Blood Poison, eat out the lining of the stomach and bowels, produce chronic dyspepsia, cause the teeth to decay, make spongy, tender gums, affect the bones and muscles, and leave its victims complete physical wrecks. Another effect of this treatment is mercurial rheumatism, the worst and most hopeless form of this disease. There is but one certain, reliable antidote for this destructive poison, and that is S. S. S. It is the only medicine that is able to go into the blood and cure the disease permanently. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up anything, but so completely drives out the poison that no signs of it are ever seen again. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and while curing Contagious Blood Poison, will drive out the effects of any mineral treatment. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains a particle of mineral of any kind. Book with instructions for self-treatment and any medical advice wished furnished without charge.

International Live Stock Exposition, Chicago, December 16th to 23rd.

In order to arrange for better facilities in handling the large attendance anticipated for this great annual event and on account of the inability of the builders to complete the magnificent new amphitheatre on time, it has been found necessary to postpone the Exposition until the dates advertised will be held on the days of the week corresponding to the dates arranged for the previous week. All preparations are being made to make the event one long to be remembered. The change in the year will bring it at a season of the year when it will no doubt be more convenient for a larger number to attend.

"A lion is known by his paw"—seeing only its paw you could not be persuaded that it was a coyote or jack-rabbit. A store is known by its ads. A man who has never been in this city would be able to identify, unerringly, the enterprising and important stores simply from looking over the ads in this newspaper.

The jolt last Tuesday almost killed father, but he will survive.

It is up to the people to say who shall be the next judge of the 12th judicial district.

It may be a case of Len-rout-hog-rd, when it comes to a show down with the chances that Davidson won't furnish material for the obsequies.

McGillivray can come into Rock county and work like a beaver for the next six months if he wants to. It's a mighty good field for exercise.

If Uncle Ike Stephenson desires to extend his acquaintance, the Bower City offers inducements in the way of good snipe ground close to the city limits, where many a good bag has been secured with but little effort.

The fight on oleomargarine makes queer bedfellows. Ex-Governor Hoard and Congressman Cully Adams are trotting in the same class, much to the disgust of the La Follette contingency.

Connor ought to make a tour of the southern part of the state and get acquainted. There are a good many people in this neck of the woods who only know him as assistant purser to the administration.

The Jefferson Bar Association had a meeting 27 strong in Janesville last Thursday, but it was an independent meeting held at the Grand Hotel and unanimous in the support of Judge Grimm. Rock county will hardly look for any support from Jefferson.

A concrete dam eight feet thick and fifty feet long, erected on a tressel 30 feet high, has just been tipped over into the Niagara river, on the Canadian side to increase the depth of water in the waterworks intake. The dam was erected on the shore and tipped over into the rapids, which are swift at this point in the river.

The Washington Post man, who spent five days in Madison last week in an effort to find out what Governor La Follette proposed to do, returned to his post with clam-like silence. There are some secrets beyond the grasp of finite being, and what the Governor proposes to do is nobody's business. The audacity of the Post man is inexcusable and will be made a matter of record.

HIS OLD HOME.
The Janesville Gazette says editorially: "Three good men are slated for the office of Circuit Judge. What's the matter with the present incumbent?" The Journal answers, he's all right. Judge Dunwiddie is a Green county boy, one to be proud of, and the dispatch and economy of Circuit court matters under his judgment will not be forgotten when it comes to voting.—Green Co. Journal.

VICTORY AT PORTSMOUTH.
Former Secretary of State John W. Foster, LL. D., recently contributed an article to the Sunday School Times on the question, "Who won in diplomacy at Portsmouth?" After sizing up the situation, so far as Japan and Russia are concerned, Mr. Foster concludes as follows:

"It is a source of special gratification to the people of the United States that our government played such an important part in bringing this bloody and destructive contest to an end. The situation was such that it required some intermediary to bring the warring parties to consent to a conference, and to fix upon a place mutually agreeable to both. It seemed that the United States was the only great power which was in a position to command the confidence of each of them. It was well known that the sympathy of the great majority of the American people was on the side of Japan, but it is creditable to our government that it so conducted itself throughout the struggle that through its strict neutrality and impartiality it did not forfeit the longstanding friendship of Russia; and when the fit time for mediation came, the Tsar listened with respect and favor to the President's suggestions.

Our relations with Japan were of a somewhat different character. In one of his various utterances on the war, the German emperor is reported to have said that the only power that Japan feared was the United States, and that it was a good thing for the world that such was the case, as it enabled the President to exercise his influence effectively for peace. Such is not a correct statement of the relations existing between those two governments. The relation is not one of fear, but of sincere and cordial friendship. It is well expressed in a recent article contributed to the New York Independent by Mr. Eki Hiroki, the Secretary of the Japanese Legation, from which I make this extract:

"The conduct of the first American envoy to Japan, as well as those who followed him, was singularly marked with truth and kindness, and it is gratifying indeed to know that the annals of the five decades of international relations between Japan and the United States are clear records of friendliness and cordiality. Without the least flattery, it may be safely asserted that Japan is indebted to no other country as much as to the United States."

"It was a delicate task to intervene between the belligerents, but President Roosevelt undertook it with a high sense of the duty which had in the judgment of the civilized nations fallen to his lot. And the President's task was not done when he brought the plenipotentiaries together at Portsmouth. No official information has yet been published as to the part taken by him in the negotiations, but it is the judgment of the world that but for his interposition and influence the conference would have been a failure, and the terrible war would have gone on. The American people rejoice in the high honor which has come to him from rulers and people in all quarters of the globe, and the distinction which has been thereby conferred upon our country."

HONESTY IN OFFICE.

The spasm of reform, which is sweeping over the country like a tidal wave, is carrying a good many men off their feet, and when the wave recedes many of these men will be stranded and surprised at their condition.

The great majority of people are honest and because this fact is so well established, the great block of capital, known as confidence, is seldom impaired. The modern reformer may appeal to God's patient, poor and in his misdirected or designing zeal stir up class hatred, but the poor are so busy these days in improving golden opportunities to better conditions, that the appeal is soon forgotten.

The great majority of men who are elevated to positions of trust and responsibility, whether in political or commercial life, are honest. When a Bigelow goes wrong, the fact is heralded broadcast, but the great banking system of the country is not disturbed and the thousands of men responsible for the stability of the system are never known beyond the circle of their environments.

A railroad company has a wreck and a dozen people are killed or maimed. Everybody on the continent knows of the accident before the wreckage is cleared away, and the company is freely criticised for carelessness or negligence, while no thought is given to the perfect train service which carries millions of passengers with safety every month.

It is the unusual which always attracts attention, and so when an official in public life goes wrong the Lawsons and Tarbells and a host of reformers denounce the "system" as corrupt, and state and municipal governments are under the ban of suspicion to such an extent that many surface thinking people become possessed of the notion that all officials are corrupt.

A mob is the easiest thing in the world to incite, and the cry of "stop thief" will start more men on a foot race than a fire alarm in the next block.

The nation is passing through an era of suspicion and unrest as the result of reform agitation, and many impractical theories are endorsed as the result.

Municipal ownership, which is just now attracting so much attention in Chicago, and which was the slogan of Hearst's campaign in New York, is popular with a great mass of voters in these large centers of population, because they have nothing at stake in the way of property, and are therefore ready to support any measure which smacks of socialism.

It is perfectly natural, under these abnormal conditions, that political parties should suffer, and the results of the late election are not surprising. Down with the party and up with the people is the sentiment with which many people are inspired, and the notion prevails, to greater or less extent, that party organization is a curse to the nation.

The independent voter is recognized as the coming man, and papers like the Chicago Tribune, with a large magazine following, applaud this class of voters to the echo.

While it is true that parties are more or less corrupt, it is also true that political faith is largely like religious faith, and the man who destroys the latter without offering a better substitute, is regarded as an enemy to humanity.

The democratic party has been engulfed in Bryanism, but the substitute is so unsatisfactory that the conservative element of the party refuse allegiance.

Reformers within the ranks of the republican party, while attempting to disrupt it, have nothing to offer but socialism, and the substitute is so obnoxious that it can not be considered. While it is true that the will of the people, in this free land, should be supreme, it is also true that the only way that the people's will can be intelligently expressed is through organization.

This is true of the church, of great business enterprises, in fact of everything where concert of action is necessary to success.

A thousand men, assembled in the interests of any enterprise, organize for intelligent action, and through small committees develop the work to successful issue. A little coterie of independent voters may object to the plan, and shout themselves hoarse in efforts to defeat it, but the work goes on.

This is the position in which the great republican party of the nation is placed today. In some localities clamor and noise have engulfed the party and the independent voter is on the crest of a popular wave, which, when it recedes, will leave him stranded and a political orphan.

The party will survive, because it is the only party in the nation today which is capable of government. The men whom the people have selected to places of trust and responsibility are honest men, as a rule, and the wisdom of the party's policy is seldom questioned. The independent voter is a menace to the welfare of the nation. He is too good for this world and hardly good enough for the next.

PRESS COMMENT.

In Days of Old.
Fond du Lac Bulletin: What a poor, tame lot of truck the colleges used to turn out before football became their leading feature.

Mere Inconsequential Trifle.
Chicago News: While something may be wrong with western football, perhaps it is nothing more than honest graft.

Scared Tammany too Well.
Milwaukee News: Mr. Hearst seems to have scared Tammany into getting out its full vote and in counting a few thousand besides.

Same Here, Brother.
Wausau Record: Wausau is a great and growing city, but if the council would give us some way of telling the names of the streets it would help some.

One Good Thing About Hearst.
Oshkosh Northwestern: There is one good thing about Mr. Hearst in politics—he is able to foot the bills himself instead of calling on friends to put up the dough.

Unexcelled at Holding On.
Milwaukee Sentinel: Gov. La Follette would have made a success as a football player. Let him get his hands on the ball and no eleven men on earth would ever be able to take it away from him.

Can Now Reassert Itself.
Exchange: Seem that it has won a football game, the University of Wisconsin may now reassert its claims to being one of the best educational institutions in the country without feeling embarrassed.

Merely Mix and Spread It.
El Paso Herald: The Chicago News is of the impression that long skirted women perform a useful function as auxiliary street cleaners. But they do not clean up the streets—they merely mix and spread the dirt.

Should Stay With Potatoes.
Superior Telegram: J. E. Crozier of Janesville, Ohio, who was defeated for a polio office at Tuesday's election, went insane yesterday. A man who takes defeat as hard as that ought to keep right on digging potatoes and give no attention to political office.

"At Dear Old Hahvahd."
Madison Journal: President Roosevelt at the head of Harvard university would be a spirited spectacle and continued over a long period, if his promise of a long life be fulfilled. But most Americans agree that Roosevelt will be overwhelmed by the irresistible demand that he serve another term.

An Inspiration to Party.
Wausau Pilot: Col. George W. Bird of Madison is perhaps the one most prominently mentioned now to make the run for governor of Wisconsin on the democratic ticket next year. His name on the ticket for that office would certainly give inspiration to the party and the Pilot believes that with him victory would be assured.

Something Will Be Doing.
Grant County Herald: Of course Lieut. Gov. Davidson, W. D. Connor and others will get the icy smile from Gov. Bob providing they become bonafide candidates for governor against his favorite Irving M. Leirout. Even Secretary of State Honser may have ostracized himself from Gov. Bob's hearty hand shake by his blane: "I'm for Jim" declaration the other day. Oh! there will be something doing when Bob comes home.

Late Contribution to Science.
Albany Vindicator: Mrs. Frank Popanz cut open a cabbage head a few days since, and her attention being attracted to something else for a minute, she found a cabbage snake a foot or more in length upon the cabbage when she returned to it. The snake was captured by Popanz and brought to town where Dr. Hirschbeck had it on exhibition for a day. The doctor sent it to Ray Broughton, who is attending the state university. The snake was about the size of a large darning needle and seemed to possess some, at least, of the characteristics of a regular snake. The cabbage snake was a reputed discovery of a year or so ago, but later on its existence as such was discredited. The discovery of the one referred to seems to settle the fact that there is such a thing.

Nothing Particularly Peculiar.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth: A Janesville man, who has secured employment with the government on the Panama canal, writes a letter home saying that it takes "two days to do the work ordinary men on northern construction gangs could do in two hours," and adds that "white men quickly drop into the slowness of the country." But then this distinction doesn't belong to Panama alone. Similar results have been noted when men were transferred to government employment at Washington. Instances have been known where department clerks, whose arduous labors extend over a period from 9 o'clock in the morning to 4 in the afternoon, have actually threatened a revolt against their chief who had issued orders to the effect that they must draw their pay outside office hours. Panama may have a good many things to answer for, but it isn't the first place where men in government employ dropped into the "slow" habit.

Songs Such As These.
Collier's Weekly: "Everybody works but father" was the name of a song which caught our eye in a shop window the other day. "Go on and Coax Me" stood next to "Keep a Little Cozy Corner in Your Heart for Me," and "Come Along, Little Girl, Come Along," was the neighbor of "She Waits by the Deep Blue Sea." We are never quite sure whether to smile at these nonsensical expressions of humor or yearning. Such sentiments, whether expressed with crudity or refinement, are the side of nature on which the world is most alike. "One touch of vulgarity kin," and Sir Edward Fry said the other day that it is true that an audience full of Aphrodites is moved to tears by such a phrase in a melodrama as "Death before dishonor." A gallery of thieves could be made to applaud sincerely "Honesty is the best policy." Lothario can feel his heart expand at "There's only one girl in the world for me." But the greatest artists also appeal to these universal yearnings as strongly as to the discrimination of the few. The Greek dramatists pleased the ordinary man and Shakespeare's tragedies are stronger with the gallery than with the stalls. There is nothing more popular in the world than familiar moral sentiment, but it loses none of its popularity by having distinction and beauty added to familiar truth. Vulgar after all, in one of its older meanings, signified merely what was common to us all, and to accept that and turn it with its beauty to the light is the highest thing that art can do.

A GRAND SHOWING OF THE LEWIS KNITTING CO.'S UNDERWEAR... HERE FOR WEDNESDAY

We shall have on display Wednesday full lines of the Lewis Underwear, and we cordially invite you to call here and inspect the same. Besides the Lewis "full fashioned" Underwear which we will show, we shall have complete lines of their medium priced garments which sell in the Union Suits at $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00 each.

The constant demand for Ribbed Underwear better made and finished than the ordinary goods which are now on the market have induced the Lewis Knitting Co. to manufacture a line of Underwear, which they style the "Janesville," having all the strong features of style and fitting that their most expensive garments have and still can be sold at a popular price. They are made in Siltrine, Wool and Lisle with the greatest care and attention to the details which go to make beautifully finished goods and which are also form fitting. In Popular Priced Goods, as a rule, these very necessary small points—if comfort, neatness of dress and durability are taken in consideration—are sacrificed. Not so with the Janesville Underwear.

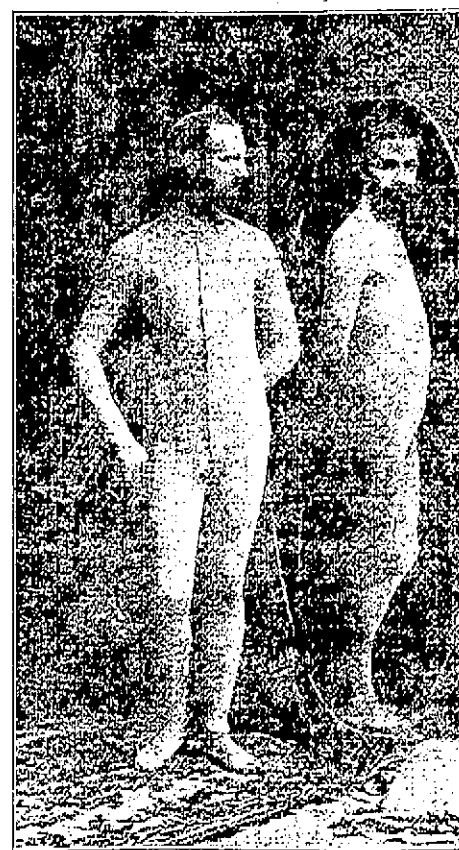

We shall be prepared Wednesday to take special measurements, so if you are hard to fit and find it necessary to have your Underwear made to your order, we urge you to call and let us take your measure, as we cannot promise garments made from special measurements under ten days or two weeks.

Wednesday also occurs the sale of all kinds of Underwear in our stock which sell ordinarily at 50c to $1.50 for each garment at a reduction in price.

A reduction generally through all lines of two-piece underwear suits through our stock for Wednesday, so don't miss this opportunity. If you wish to be comfortably dressed and want to get satisfaction from your underwear accept nothing but the "LEWIS."

RAY MARSDEN IN TROUBLE AGAIN

FORMER JANESVILLE BOY UNDER ARREST IN MILWAUKEE.

SERIOUS CHARGES BROUGHT

It is Alleged He Robbed the Public Museum in the Cream City—A Bad Record.

Scarcely twenty years of age but with two convictions for burglary and larceny against him Ray Marsden who up to a few months ago claimed Janesville as his home, is under arrest in Milwaukee charged with robbery from the public museum of that city. Marsden was only released from the Green Bay Reformatory a few months ago and Janesville his home until ordered to leave by the police and threatened with arrest if he remained.

Sent To Waukesha. His record as a criminal first appears on the Janesville court record in September of 1901. He was then sixteen years of age and was sentenced to the Industrial school at Waukesha until he was twenty one for the theft of two rifles and a hundred rounds of cartridges from a shooting gallery in the Eldredge property. He was caught by Officer John Brown after a week's search in the livery barn of Dan Ryan. Sentenced on the 25th of September he was taken to Waukesha but escaped three days later and returned to Janesville.

Dressed As Woman. He was here in hiding for many days. Part of the time he was disguised as a woman in skirts and hat and veil. His presence in the city was known and it was also known he was tampering with cars in the rail yard. On October 11 he was taken into Skelly's book store on Milwaukee street and stole a quantity of fountain pens. He was traced to Chicago by the late John Hogan and arrested there. He had in his possession at that time three loaded revolvers. Being an escaped prisoner from Waukesha the authorities there were notified of his capture but begged that he not be sent back there for them to care for. He was consequently convicted in the municipal court and sentenced to five years at Waupun on October 18. Becoming eighteen a short time afterward he was removed to the Green Bay reformatory and this last spring completed his term and returned to Janesville.

Asked for Parole. Petitions for his parole were passed around in the summer of 1902, being signed by Judge Fifield, W. A. Jackson, then district attorney, and City Marshal John Hogan. John L. Fisher argued the case before the Governor, but the parole was denied. Just before his release from Green Bay his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marsden, removed to Milwaukee in hopes that a change of scene and companions would help their boy to be good and honest. Young Marsden, however, refused to go to Milwaukee until ordered out of the city by the police. Several petty larceny cases in the city during the summer have been alleged to have been his work, but no evidence was secured.

His Last Job. Confession of his crime of the Milwaukee robbery is in the hands of the Milwaukee police and it is probable that he will be sent to state's prison for another term. He secured relief worth $25, part of which he pawned and it was by these he was traced and arrested. He was going under the name of Thornton when arrested, but his real identity was discovered by his own name being found in his pockets with his parents' address.

REV. C. F. LADD WILL BE SPEAKER THIS EVENING

C. F. Ladd of Mendota, Ill. Pastor Lubke of the local society has arranged these services and secured Rev. Ladd to assist him. The latter is not only an excellent speaker but also a good singer. The song service will be at eight past seven and the address at eight o'clock. The subject of the sermons will be announced each day.

OBITUARY.

Mary Louise Young Parker. Mary Louise Young Parker, widow of Major W. H. Parker of the U. S. Marine Corps and a former resident of this city, died after a brief illness at the residence of her son-in-law, Edwin A. Barber, in West Chester, Pa., on Thursday, Nov. 9. She was sixty-eight years of age. The remains were taken to Washington, D. C., and laid at rest beside those of her husband. Friday's issue of the Daily Local News of West Chester, a copy of which has been received by Mrs. Sarah J. Carpenter and Miss Matilda Parker, sisters of the late Major Parker, contains the following obituary notice: "Mrs. Parker was a woman of gentle and retiring nature, whose life was spent in promoting the comfort and happiness of others. In her home she was all that was self-sacrificing and lovely, and her generous spirit found its greatest pleasure in constant deeds of kindness. She had many warm friends, who will feel her loss greatly."

In early life he emigrated to America and settled in Vermont. During the fifties Mr. Cunningham enlisted in the United States army. He remained in the service five years—all previous to the opening of the civil war—being stationed in Texas. Four decades ago he came westward making his home in Green County. He lived there until seven years ago, when he removed to Janesville and has since resided here. There are left to mourn his demise two sons and a daughter: Attorney J. J. Cunningham, Miss Phoebe Cunningham and Dr. M. A. Cunningham, all of Janesville. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. J. R. Carroll of Monroe, and two brothers in Chicago. KATE RICHTER ASKS CITY TO PAY $500

Damage for Injury Alleged to Have Been Done Fountain House During a Recent Storm.

Unless there are some surprises in store, the city council seems likely to concern itself at tonight's session mainly with routine business. Mrs. Kate Richter has through her attorneys, Fetters, Jeffris & Moul, served notice on the city that it is debtor to her to the extent of $500 for damages to the premises, buildings, and contents of the property at the corner of Milwaukee and Pleasant streets, known as the Fountain House, alleged to have been wrought by the accumulation and overflow of surface water, caused by insufficient, inadequate, and defective sewers; the clogging and stoppage thereof; and by reason of negligent and unlawful diversion of surface water to the place where said premises are located and in quantities more than there are able to carry off. It is asserted that prior to the day when all this happened, Thursday, Oct. 26, 1905, the city attempted to construct a storm sewer to carry off the surface water naturally collecting at a point in front of the premises and that the same proved inadequate. In consequence the basement of the building is alleged to have been flooded, and the floors and walls warped and weakened. Notices to similar effect have come in from the same quarter after several of the other big storms this year.

HAVE ISOLATED ALL VARIOLOID PATIENTS

Superintendent Clark Says That They Have Established a Hospital at State School.

"We have established a hospital ward out here," said Superintendent Harvey Clark of the state institute for the blind, this afternoon. "Acting on the advice of Dr. Harper and Dr. Q. O. Sutherland, members of the state board of health, we have isolated all the cases of varioloid, keeping them entirely separate from the rest of the school. In all we have had fifteen cases since the scare began. At present there are nine in the sick ward, but none of them are in bad and they eat and play like well children. In fact, not one of the students who has had the disease has been in bed. You might state that the vaccination is working nicely and we all of us feel the effects of the vaccine nicely. Dr. Harper, secretary of the state board, visited the school and it is upon his recommendation that we have the sick ward with trained nurses in attendance. Thus far the disease has been confined to pupils ranging from nine to twenty years. Two new cases developed yesterday and were promptly isolated. Of course we are still quarantined but this the pupils do not seem to mind at all."

The inhabitants are enjoying the greatest prosperity in years. The district attorney spent a day in Winnipeg, a modern and progressive city of 90,000. The temperature was as mild as in Janesville and aside from the frequent reference to "His Majesty" Atty. Newhouse says that he should consider it a very pleasant residence place.

WAS THE LETTER RECEIVED IN TIME?

ON THIS APPARENTLY HINGES TROUBLE AT STATE UNIVERSITY.

INTESTS JANESVILLE PEOPLE

Rock County Concrete Stone Company Sent a Bid for Work on Hydraulic Building.

That the part played by the Rock County Concrete Stone Company relative to the bids for the new hydraulic laboratory at the university has precipitated a row which may be far-reaching in its extent is being discussed freely today. Already the resignation of J. T. W. Jennings, as university architect, has been made and the name of E. F. Riley, for many years secretary of the board of regents, has been brought into connection with the affair. Last evening Mr. Jennings and his attorney, Elmer Elvor of Madison, visited Janesville and secured an affidavit from J. J. Jensen, general manager of the Rock County Concrete Stone Company, that will be used in defense of Mr. Jennings' position in the suits that are liable to follow.

Jensen's Statement. When the plans and specifications for the completion of the hydraulic laboratory were issued last summer they called for a concrete stone. According to the newspaper reports published, the bid of the Janesville concern was not received in time to be considered and the contract was awarded to Blake Bros. of Madison. This is the same firm that laid several macadam streets in Janesville three years ago. It is also asserted that acting upon advice of Attorney J. L. Fisher of this city, Governor La Follette examined into the contract of Blake Bros. and ordered it cancelled. The latter statement is denied by Mr. J. L. Fisher, as he says that he has had nothing whatsoever to do with the case at all and that he is not attorney for the company, their legal representative being Mr. Arthur Fisher, who is secretary and treasurer.

Visits Janesville. Last evening Mr. Jennings, who is alleged to be implicated in the awarding of bids, secured an affidavit from Mr. Jensen regarding alleged statements to the effect that he, Jennings, had told the Janesville company that their bids would be considered even if received the next day. Mr. Jensen said this morning: "I gave Mr. Jennings my affidavit to this effect. I went to Madison to look over the plans but that I saw no one but a clerk in Jennings' office. I was not told that we would have time to file our bids the next day and fully understood the bids must be in before the stipulated time for closing. I did not see Mr. Jennings and I do not know that I have ever seen Mr. Riley. Mr. Fisher may have seen Mr. Riley but he is out of the city and I do not know regarding this."

Sent by Mail. It is known that the bids of the Rock County Concrete Stone Company were sent to Madison on the day of the opening of the bids by a special delivery letter. The letter was given to a postman in Janesville at nine o'clock, left the Janesville office in the mail going on the 11:15 train and arrived in Madison shortly before one. The special committee of the board of regents met that afternoon. Members Taylor of Oshkosh and Swenson of Madison were present. Secretary Riley presented two bids for the work and it is alleged here that he said another had been received, but too late for consideration, as the time for receiving bids closed at two and the last bid was not received until two-forty-five. The question now lies in the efficiency of the special delivery service of the Madison postoffice.

STON WORK

Mr. G. U. Fisher is not in the city so it can not be learned whether he had received assurances from Mr. Riley that his bid would be considered if received on the morning of the day of the opening. It is not known whether the bid of the Janesville company was lower than that of Blake Bros. who were awarded the contract but it is stated unofficially that it was, by persons who appear to know regarding the matter. Meanwhile the work on the building has been stopped and it is said that new bids for the work will be asked for and the entire work gone over again.

JEROME, SMASHER OF BOSSES

Personality of the Man Who Has Been Elected District Attorney of New York in Defiance of Political Machines.

Became a National Figure by Daring to Be Independent—Declined Nominations For Governor and Mayor Because He Wanted to Raise Moral Issue.

THERE is a new school of politicians abroad in the land. Some will say that this is a good thing, for whatever the new sort is like it must be better than the old. That does not necessarily follow, but as a matter of fact this latest brand does seem to be an improvement. For one thing it is a winner, and that counts for much, especially in politics. For another it is young, breezy, vigorous and original. For still another it is independent, frank and honest. It talks "right out in meetin'" and not only says things, but does them. It goes after corruption and rips up the boss. It may be spectacular, but it is interesting. It may talk slang sometimes, but it is clean. It strikes

Yet he was elected. The people evidently believed in a man who would take a crack at every boss in sight.
His new style of whirlwind campaigning was a revelation and a winner.
That election was for four years, while the rest of the ticket only went in for two. When he took office he rented a house on the east side, as he had promised to do. Here he established a branch office, where the poorer citizens who were not able to get off during the day could come to him for justice at night. At first few appeared.

The sort of officers with whom they were familiar had always demanded money in the form of "shakedowns." Soon they learned the true character of this man, however, and now when the poor denizens of the east side want a square deal they "appeal to Jerome." Outside of this tenement—for it is little more than that—Mr. Jerome has a summer home in Connecticut, where before he took office most of his time was spent. Despite his ripping way of making campaigns and his banner and toys methods of going after gamblers and grafters, he is a very domestic man, quiet in manner, studious and a gentleman both by inheritance and instinct. After all, it is these quiet, earnest people who stir things. The loud brawlers seldom moves anything except the atmosphere.

Lives Up to His Theories.

In office Jerome is said to be efficient and to keep his word even with the calendar. It is his theory to crowd through every criminal case on the jump, and he is the sort of man that lives up to his theories. He has few, by the way, being too busy to think of them.

The most sensational thing he has done in office was to drive out gambling. That is a story in itself, an old one, but worth retelling. The first effort was a failure because of deficient laws. Then Jerome shifted his base of operations to Albany and had the law amended. It took a fight to do it.

was practically offered the fusion nomination for mayor, which would probably have meant his election. He declined. He wanted to be re-elected district attorney, he said, and nothing else. Moreover, he wanted to make a fight against the bosses of both parties.
He wanted to show the people of New York that a man could be elected without any machine behind him. He believed it time to raise a moral issue, to declare again for individual liberty.
Since no one else seemed ready to do this, he would do it himself. He did it. In the beginning every newspaper in the city practically threatened that he had cut his own political throat, that he had prevented fusion and many other dreadful things. Anyway, he went on the ballot by petition. All the regular conventions refused to nominate him.
The betting was all against him. The odds in the start being overwhelming.
It was interesting, however, to note the way those odds came down as Jerome warmed up in the campaign. Before it was half through they were even. Then the Republican candidate withdrew, and the convention of that party substituted the name of Jerome, although it was so late the courts knocked out the action. From that time forward the betting odds set in Jerome's favor, and before the light ended they were as heavy for him as previously they had been against him.

Jerome's issue throughout was a declaration of independence against the bosses, and he could not be diverted from that line of attack. One of the most illuminating incidents of the campaign was furnished by the Tammany candidate, James W. Osborne, formerly an assistant in the office. He spoke of the great number of opportunities the district attorney had for getting graft and remarked that "if Jerome didn't get it he was a fool."

When the statement was shown to Mr. Jerome he looked pensive for a moment and said gently, "Poor Jim!"
It stuck. Mr. Osborne remained "Poor Jim" throughout the campaign, and he will be fortunate to lose the appellation during his life. Jerome's campaign slogan against Murphy has been, "Where did he get it?" varied sometimes by "Where did he not get it?" These two he has made as famous as "Poor Jim."

A National Figure.

The issue started by Mr. Jerome grew beyond the dreams of a great author. Before the end it became a moral crusade for the wiping out of boss control, a civic reform wave sweeping all before it. The whirlwind campaign developed into a cyclone of ballots by election day. The revolt against machine methods found such widespread response that it made of Jerome a national figure. Seldom, if ever, in modern political history has there been so unique a fight, one so involving the element of doing the right thing regardless of consequences, one so appealing to the imagination and the spirit of righteousness.

William Travers Jerome was born in New York April 18, 1850. He comes of a distinguished family, his father, Lawrence K. Jerome, having been one of the best known men in the New York of an earlier day. He, too, was a politician, but without any reform proclivities. Millionaire banker, promoter, patron of sports, literature and art, practical joker and after dinner speaker, Lawrence K. Jerome was considered a prince of good fellows. The story of the son's christening is worth telling. The elder Jerome was dining downtown with William R. Travers when a telegram was handed him announcing the boy's arrival.

"What's the d-d-duffer's name?" stammered Travers.

"William Travers Jerome," announced the proud father, little knowing just how famous that name was destined to become.

Another story is told of the senior Jerome that, though old, may have been new when he sprang it. Being in a crowded Broadway bus, the father took William Travers, then a boy of ten, on his knee. A stunning young lady came aboard and was compelled to stand. "Travers," reprovingly remarked the father, "why do you not get up and give the lady your seat?"

There is a story told of the young man's youth indicating that he himself was not exactly a Sunday school boy.
His mother remonstrated with him for playing cards, asking him if a great deal of time were not lost in playing the game. "Yes, mother," he smiled in reply, "there is—in shuffling and dealing."

An uncle of the district attorney, Leonard Jerome, was the man for whom the famous Jerome race track park was named.

A cousin is Lady Randolph Churchill, of whom Gladstone once said that she could make more votes than any campaign orator in England.

Greatest Fad His Machine Shop.

When a young man William Travers Jerome was very delicate, being forced to leave college before graduation on account of a breakdown. He then began outdoor exercises to build up his body. He plays golf and used to be an enthusiastic bicyclist, but now substitutes automobile campaigning for that sport. Perhaps his greatest fad is his machine shop in the basement of his Connecticut home, where he makes clocks and all sorts of odd and curious things to present to his friends.

Mr. Jerome is a confirmed smoker, one tale crediting him with burning twenty cigarettes a day. Another story says that he has given up cigarettes for cigars, but that he only indulges in a cheap brand because he does not wish to form an expensive habit. A third account says that he has abandoned both cigars and cigarettes for a pipe. At any rate, there is one thing certain—he smokes. He also causes the other fellow to smoke. But that remark is too obvious.

the chord of righteousness in a new way, and that chord never fails to respond.

The most conspicuous examples of this new school are, perhaps, Roosevelt, La Follette, Folk, Weaver and Jerome. It has been said that the last shall be first, and that is so—at least in this article. Jerome is just now is very much in the public eye because of the fact that the people of New York have smashed all sorts of political machines to re-elect him district attorney. It takes a man to be elected to office without any kind of partisan support, especially in New York.

"The Man With the Ax."

Jerome is known around Gotham as "the man with the ax." He gained that title when a justice of special sessions. Learning that the police were protecting vice and crime, he went with the officers to serve his own warrants and more than once wielded the ax to break down the doors of gambling and other disreputable houses. It was then that he made a remark worthy to live, "I do not believe the Ten Commandments have been repealed." It was his record as judge that gave him the unanimous nomination of the anti-Tammany forces for district attorney. That was four years ago. His method of campaigning made him the central figure of the fight. Renting a room downtown, he never went near any of the political headquarters, but arranged his own schedules and went his own gait. His manner of hitting every head he saw alarmed the politicians. He not only went after Croker, the opposition boss, but lambasted Platt, who was supposed to be supporting Jerome's side. The fusion managers begged him to moderate his language, but he only made it stronger.
Almost every one thought his impulsive course would defeat him. But were freely offered at 4 to 1 against him.

but a loss of temper on the part of the senator representing the district and an attack on the Republican leader, Senator Raines, caused him to push the bill through.

After the new law was enacted an amusing thing occurred. The Tammany chief of police announced that there was no gambling in New York.
Then something happened. Calling the owners of the biggest gambling houses into his office, Mr. Jerome quietly explained to them that he had them "dead to rights." They seemed to agree with him. It was a question as to whether they would close voluntarily or be closed. They decided to close voluntarily. As a result two large rooms at the district attorney's office are packed full of gambling paraphernalia, and some of it overflows into other rooms.

When Mayor Low's term was drawing to a close Mr. Jerome again did a thing which drew around his ears a bunch of nettles. It was impossible to re-elect Low, and Jerome became convinced of that fact. He is not the sort to say a thing quietly which he thinks should be said openly, so he said loud enough for all New York to hear that he did not think Low should be re-nominated.
Everybody exclaimed, "How true, but how impolitic!" The upshot was that Low was renominated and defeated by an overwhelming majority.

In 1904 Senator David B. Hill offered Jerome the Democratic nomination for governor, provided, of course, that he would be a good Indian and not do things to the machine. The district attorney's language in declining is not on record, but is said to have been vigorous.

proached, William Travers Jerome

The Food Value of a Soda Cracker

You have heard that some foods furnish fat, other foods make muscle, and still others are tissue building and heat forming.

You know that most foods have one or more of these elements, but do you know that no food contains them all in such properly balanced proportions as a good soda cracker?

The United States Government report shows that soda crackers contain less water, are richer in the muscle and fat elements, and have a much higher per cent of the tissue building and heat forming properties than any article of food made from flour.

That is why Uneeda Biscuit should form an important part of every meal. They represent the superlative of the soda cracker, all their goodness and nourishment being brought

MAJESTIC BAKING DEMONSTRATION

NOW GOING ON

We heartily invite our friends to call at our store any day during this week where we are demonstrating the superior qualities of the

NEW MAJESTIC MALLEABLE AND CHARCOAL IRON RANGES

The MAJESTIC MALLEABLE and steel range as formerly turned out by the Majestic people has been considered throughout the entire country par-excellence, and far ahead of any other range made. But with the NEW CHARCOAL IRON BODY in place of steel, making it double its value, and the fact that it is the only range in existence made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron, you can readily see that if quality is considered, the Majestic leads by a big margin. WE WANT YOU TO CALL at our store this week, and let us explain this new feature:—CHARCOAL IRON BODIES; let us explain why it is the best material for range bodies, and incidentally, why it is not used on other ranges. We want you to call if you intend to buy or not, as the information gained will serve you in the future.

HANDSOME SOUVENIR--FREE

As long as they last, we propose to give to each prospective customer a neat souvenir, something that has not been offered before. If you intend to buy, call early and get one of these souvenirs;

HOT COFFEE AND BISCUITS--FREE

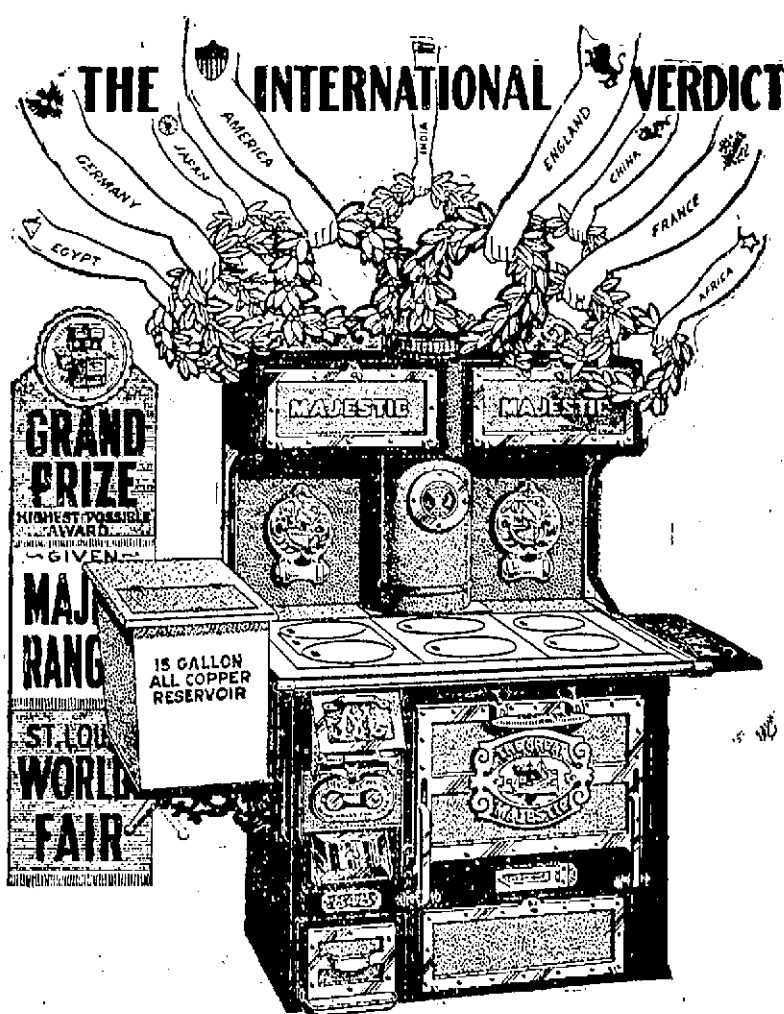

Come any day this week and have buttered hot biscuits and hot coffee. Biscuits baked on a Majestic in three minutes while you wait.

HANDSOME SET OF WARE--FREE

With every range sold during this Demonstration we will give absolutely FREE one set of Majestic ware worth every cent of $7.50. This ware will be on exhibition at our store. Everything useful, ornamental and durable. Come in and see it, and you will agree with us that it cannot be bought for a cent less than $7.50, and it is cheap at that.

COME IN ANY DAY, YOU ARE WELCOME WHETHER YOU INTEND TO BUY OR NOT.

BRITISH SAILORS SAVE FOURTEEN

Catboat Is Upset on Way to View Combined Fleets in North River.

THOUSANDS VISIT FLAGSHIP

Armored Cruiser Drake is Objective Point of New Yorkers, Who Sought to Get a Glimpse of Prince Louis of Battenberg.

New York, Nov. 12.—Sailors from the British cruiser Cumberland Sunday saved the lives of fourteen persons who were upset in a catboat while on their way to view the combined fleets in the North River.

When the boat, which had come from Staten island and contained eight men, three women and three children, capsized, a boat from the Cumberland went to the rescue and succeeded in bringing all safely to shore.

E. Dinmick, a seaman on the Bedford, jumped overboard and rescued a boy who was thrown into the water by the swamping of a small boat alongside the ship.

Five thousand persons visited the armored cruiser Drake, flagship of Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, between 1 and 4 o'clock Sunday. A crowd numbering half as many was waiting in hopes of going on board when the police announced that the ship was closed to visitors for the day.

Courteous to Visitors. The admiral's quarters were the only part of the Drake which was not open to the visitors. Officers and men devoted a great deal of time to answering questions and showing the visitors all about the ship.

The visitors were much interested in the portable ballroom, which has been put in place and extends for seventy feet along the boat deck. It is inclosed in heavy red and white striped canvas and the interior is decorated with British and American flags.

The prince spent the morning quietly, went for an automobile ride in the afternoon, and at night was the guest of Mayor McClelland.

Misses Church Services. A mistake about the hour at which the morning service began prevented the prince from worshipping in old Trinity, as he had planned. Thinking service began at 11 o'clock, he made arrangements to leave the ship at 10:45. Just about that time he received a note from the British consul general informing him that 10:30 was the hour for service and asking the cause of his delay. The prince regretted the mistake and rather than put in an appearance when the service was half over decided to remain on board and spent the remainder of the morning answering some of the many letters with which he has been flooded since his arrival here.

Prince Is Annoyed. The prince is annoyed that his remarks several days ago about the disastrous effect upon tall buildings in New York of the combined fire of eighteen warships anchored in the North river have been misinterpreted as a criticism of New York's defenses. In reply to the direct question: "Do you think the combined fleet of vessels from their anchorage in the North river could destroy the tall buildings in New York?" the prince said he certainly did think such a result would follow a bombardment directed from the anchorage.

NOT CONFIDENT THAT WISCONSIN WILL WIN

Michigan Rooters Have Sent Money to Madison at Three to One to Bet.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—Coaches King and Holt are making some changes in the badger attack to fit the personnel of the Michigan team, which they observed in the easy game between the Wolverines and Ohio state university at Ann Arbor Saturday. This adaptation to the Michigan team is not of great importance, as it is based upon very definite information. The Michigan team that played Saturday is very different from that which will play Wisconsin. The news brought by the badger coaches from Ann Arbor was disquieting. "We have a good chance to win," the coaches say. But it is without much apparent confidence that they express themselves. The tone is suggestive of "We are not beaten yet and we won't give up without a hard fight." About $1,800 of Michigan money arrived at the Farlin billiard hall to be wagered at odds of three to one on Michigan. Some $600 was quickly covered and the remainder will not last long at that price.

The same tactics largely that were used in preparation for Minnesota will be employed this week. The strong second eleven is being drilled in the Michigan offensive game and given the ball to try to advance against the regulars. It is the development of a new scheme of defense that the observations of King and Holt at Ann Arbor will be most useful. It is the Michigan backs that are giving worry here. If they can be stopped there is no doubt entertained that Wisconsin will be victorious. Therefore, with Messner, the strong young relative of the Milwaukee archbishop, impersonating Tom Hammond on the Wisconsin scrubs, and the whole second eleven being urged on by the united efforts of Arne Lerum, John Crogg and other old stars who have returned to assist in the final hard week, the coaches of the first team are studying out the best method of meeting the wolverine rushes and runs. It is expected that Michigan's game will be versatile, and that if one attack is successfully resisted great resourcefulness will be exhibited, and that is another fact that disturbs the badger peace of mind. In the Chicago and Minnesota games the badgers did not meet great variety in opposition and once the opponents' style had been solved no great changes were met. With Michigan, however, it is felt that as soon as one style of offense is solved another and perhaps more puzzling will be sprung. This feeling may represent the high opinion in which Coach Yost is held at Madison. About 2,000 Wisconsin students are wearing cardinal ribbons on their hats, bearing the device, "On to Michigan." Enthusiasm is great and the Wisconsin yell is heard echoing through the halls and classrooms all day long. It is given at theatres and other gatherings with variations indicating a determination and a spirit of bravado, but down in their hearts there is today not much genuine confidence among Wisconsin students that the time has come for the humiliation of Yost, and the judgment of badgers in general is fairly represented by the uncovered three to one Michigan money at Farlin's.

The Big Games. Wisconsin's victory over Beloit by a score of 44 to 0, Chicago's game of 19 to 0 with Purdue and Michigan's 40 to 0 over Ohio shows nothing of the relative merits of these three teams. At Madison, Michigan and Chicago the rest of the season centers on the game with Wisconsin and Michigan and Michigan with Chicago. Pennsylvania showed itself a true old war-horse by winning from Harvard by the tune of twelve to six and Princeton lowered Cornell's colors with sixteen to six. Yale trimmed Brown up by a score of 11 to 0. As Pennsylvania does not play either er Yale or Princeton the respective merits of these teams can only be estimated but Yale looks the strongest of the big four. Other scores are: IN THE WEST.

Another Janesville Victory. The Janesville City team met the Beloit Tigers at Yost's park yesterday afternoon and defeated them by a score of 11 to 4. The touchdowns were made by W. Hessian and Warr and the goal was kicked by McNeill. Beloit secured her four points by a drop-kick from the field. The local team was composed of R. Hessian, J. Marshall, M. Stamper, P. Marskie, W. Gregory, E. McNeill, W. Warr, and E. Krueger. Next Sunday the eleven will go to Madison to play.

SEEKS DEATH TO COVER UP HIS SHORTCOMINGS

Poison Fails to Kill Repentant Printer, Who Makes His Way to Police Station and Surrenders.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12.—Henry M. Allen, an employee of the government printing office at Washington, D. C., who, after his disappearance on Wednesday, wrote his wife saying he intended to commit suicide, and that his body would be found "among the hills of Abington," in Montgomery county, surrendered Sunday to the police.

He said he had taken $2,200 from the printers' beneficial association organization of employees of the government printing office, of which he had been treasurer, and decided to return to the hills of Abington, where he was born and spent his boyhood, to commit suicide. When he could not steal a ride on a freight train he tramped not even pausing to sleep. At a drug store in Abington he spent 10 cents for laudanum, hastened to a hill between Abington and Willow Grove, and swallowed the drug. A few hours later he awoke, the poison having, in ignorance of its use he had not taken enough. Then he walked to Philadelphia.

Allen left his home Wednesday morning, but failed to report at the printing office, or to return home in the evening.

Friday morning his wife received a letter from him, telling of his intended suicide. Mrs. Allen notified the Washington police, and they sent word to the Montgomery county authorities, who searched the country in and around Abington.

LOSES JOB BECAUSE HE IS FAT

Friend of Iowa Veteran Endeavor to Have Him Reinstated.

Iowa Falls, Iowa, Nov. 12.—Will he lose his official position because he is too fat? This question is now agitating the officials at the state house as well as the old soldiers of the state who have taken up the cause of a fellow comrade in his efforts to retain his position at the state house, despite his inclination to extreme obesity. Tom Graham has been a watchman at the state house, but was discharged by Custodian McCurdy on the grounds that the custodian was "too fat." The discharged employee took issue with his superior and called for an investigation of his dismissal and the causes leading up to it and the matter is now being looked into. Graham is an old soldier and is backed by his comrades over the state, who are seeking to reinstate him, notwithstanding his large physical proportions.

RESENTS INSULT BY MINISTER

Town Marshal Called a Pumpkin Head Slaps Parson's Face.

Chillicothe, O., Nov. 12.—The village of Chillicothe is excited over the sensational encounter between Rev. M. Wilson of the Presbyterian church and Strawder McNeal, who is the marshal of the place. Frankfort is a dry town, but there has been a great deal of whiskey an, beer imported, and in the pulp it Rev. M. Wilson blamed the marshal for it. The pastor referred to the marshal as a pumpkin-head and a coward for failing to do his duty, and the marshal, who was present, jumped from his seat and called the pastor a liar. A riot was imminent, but the marshal left the church without trouble. Next morning the two men met in front of the postoffice and the marshal slapped the minister's face. Bystanders interfered and there were no arrests.

Yesterday afternoon the Janesville Badgers defeated a heavy football team from Beloit by the overwhelming score of 30 to 0. The locals averaged 127 pounds, while the visitors averaged 142, but the home eleven circled the ends and battered through the line of the Line City boys. GET-RICH-QUICK TRADE LURES BUSINESS MEN

Desire to Accumulate Wealth in a Hurry Leads Merchants Into Sphere of Danger.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 12.—Prominent St. Louis business men, identified with businesses which come under the get-rich-quick heading, are threatened with arrest as the result of disclosures made to the federal grand jury. Sensational information, it is believed, has been given to the grand jury by former President Sultzbarger of the defunct Merchants' Brokerage Commission company. Sultzbarger is charged with conducting a get-rich-quick concern.

It has been known for a long time that several concerns operated by men of prominence could not be reached for lack of conclusive evidence. At the federal building it was said that "men higher up" had been exposed by Sultzbarger. One of the named concerns is still doing business, another has quit, but the managers and owners are still in the city and can be arrested at any time.

Sultzbarger and Postoffice Inspector Reid have held several conferences recently and it is believed that Sultzbarger told Reid things that are likely to result in fresh indictments and a local sensation.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE BY MISTAKE

Detroit Woman Is Victim of Revolver Purchased to Protect Her.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12.—James T. Thorburn, president of the William H. Elliott company of this city, Sunday accidentally shot and killed his wife at their home on Second avenue. The Thorburn home was robbed recently and at his wife's request Mr. Thorburn Saturday night brought home a new revolver to be kept in the house for her protection. Soon after they arose Sunday Mr. Thorburn carefully explained to his wife how the weapon worked and then reloaded it. He noticed a spot of oil on the revolver as he was about to put it away and undertook to wipe it off. In some manner the cloth caught the trigger and exploded a cartridge, the bullet striking Mrs. Thorburn in the temple and instantly killing her. A 6-year-old daughter lay in her bed in the same room when the tragedy occurred. Mr. Thorburn is nearly crazed over the accident.
